FOREWORD

*"Let knowledge grow;
let life be enriched."*

*We, Seniors, hitherto known as the Class of 1965,
have grown scholastically
and our lives
have been enriched beyond measure.*

*We set our goals,
and we can proudly state that we have achieved them,
not by our efforts alone,
but with the help
and encouragement of our parents and faculty.*

*Our final year has been filled with triumphs and tragedies.
In this,
our greatest literary venture, we report the events which predominate
among our high school memories.*

*Now, we must look toward the wider horizons
of the future,
and we know
each dawn will bring greater challenges and more glorious sunsets.*

The Class of 1965 Unanimously

DEDICATION

By a unanimous decision, we, the Class of 1965, humbly and gratefully dedicate our yearbook to Mrs. Mary A. Welch in appreciation for her thoughtfulness, her friendship, and her personal concern for each of us. During the years that we have known her, even during her recent personal tragedy and its subsequent burdens, she has always demonstrated a remarkable degree of fortitude, of dedication, and of loyalty to her students. We extend to her our most profound gratitude for the educational, social, and spiritual guidance that she has found time to give us. We sincerely hope that the future will shine brightly for her, and that she can look forward to many more happy years as an honored and respected teacher and back upon many cherished memories of M. H. S.

Mrs. Mary A. Welch

Her pride and joy

Determines Yearbook Dedication

"Welcome! And what's your name?"

June, 1965

To The Class of 1965:

Americans have always been a people in motion. From the time of the first landing on this continent to our present Space Age, this country has been known for its role in exciting feats and adventures. Such ventures in science, for example, have provided for improved seaways, highways, and airways, and soon even the moon will be within reach.

In your own world of adventure, you also will remain restless until you attain your desired physical and social environment. Wherever that may be in this "Great Society", let your foundation at Millis High School establish the fundamental principles of your stature and security.

Sincerely yours,

William A. Vellante

Efficient

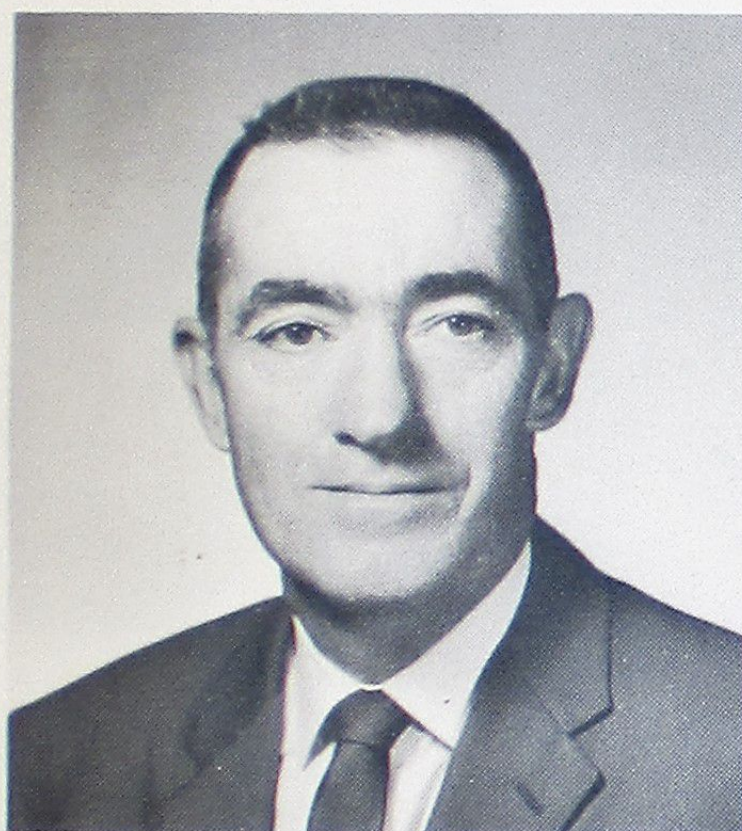

ADMINISTRATION

Administrators Key to Efficient School System

An efficient school system is dependent upon well-trained administrators. We are extremely fortunate in having capable and conscientious administrators here at Millis. Although engaged in numerous activities, Dr. Roy, Mr. Vellante, Mr. Doyle, and Mrs. Barrett have, nevertheless, remained in close contact with the students, and have worked diligently to see that each one has been provided with an effective and well-rounded education. The members of the Class of 1965 gratefully express sincere appreciation for the untiring efforts of these administrators towards this goal.

CURRICULUM

Excerpts from the Statement of Philosophy and Objectives of Millis Junior-Senior High School: "The administration shall provide leadership — the Staff shall develop sound citizens — the curricula shall provide each student with a meaningful sequence of subjects — the curricula shall complement the work of parents and other community agencies — the curricula shall make each student aware of rights, responsibilities, duties, and privileges as a United States Citizen — the school shall provide the opportunity for a knowledge and appreciation of art, literature, and music — the school shall provide adequate counseling services — the school shall provide for the acquisition of knowledge concerning sound mental and physical health — the school shall provide opportunities to acquire an understanding of the natural laws of the environment — the curricula shall provide for the increasing need for mathematical processes — that a fundamental aim of the school programs shall be to generate within the individual the ability to formulate his ideas logically and to communicate them articulately."

Willis Report Recommends Complete

Among the recommendations included in the preliminary report of the Willis Commission, whose function is to improve the standards of education in Massachusetts, are the following:

a) Setting of new standards for educational quality, the penalty for not conforming to these to be loss of state aid.

b) Establishment of a new State Board of Public School Education.

c) Creation of a Coordinated Board of Higher Education and an eleven-member Advisory Council on Education.

d) Reorganization of the State Department of Education.

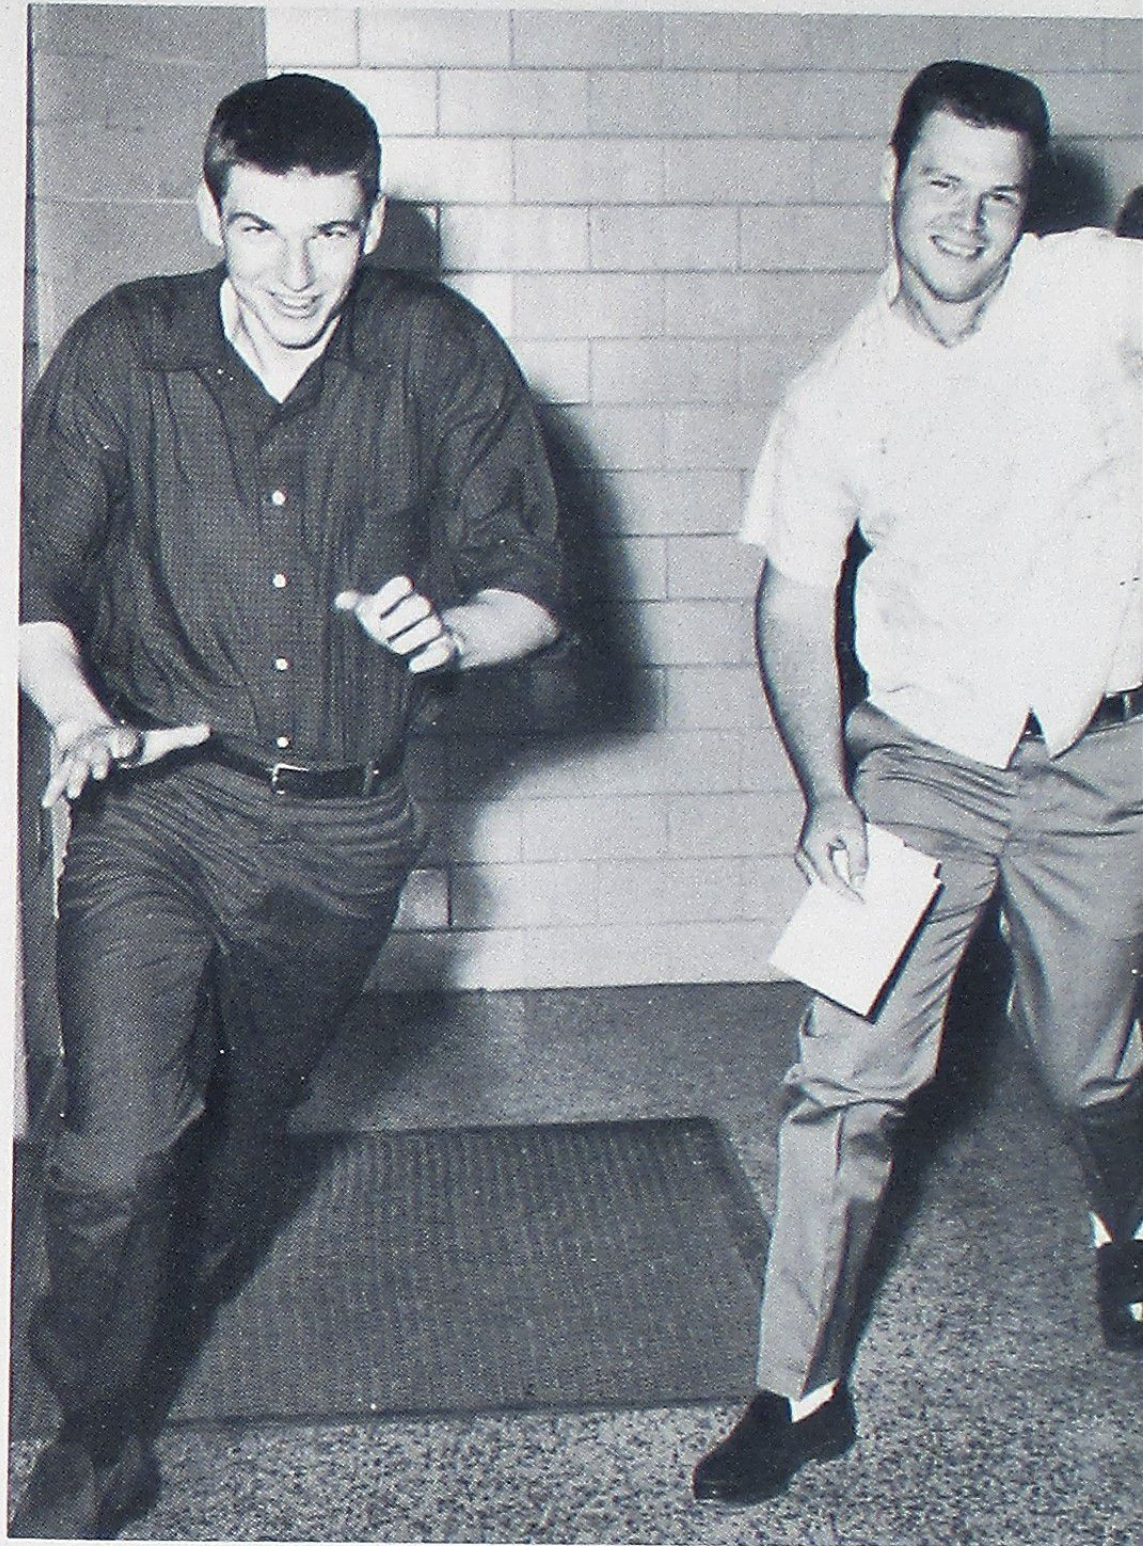

e) Appropriation of funds to aid educational institutions.

f) Revamping of technical-vocational instruction.

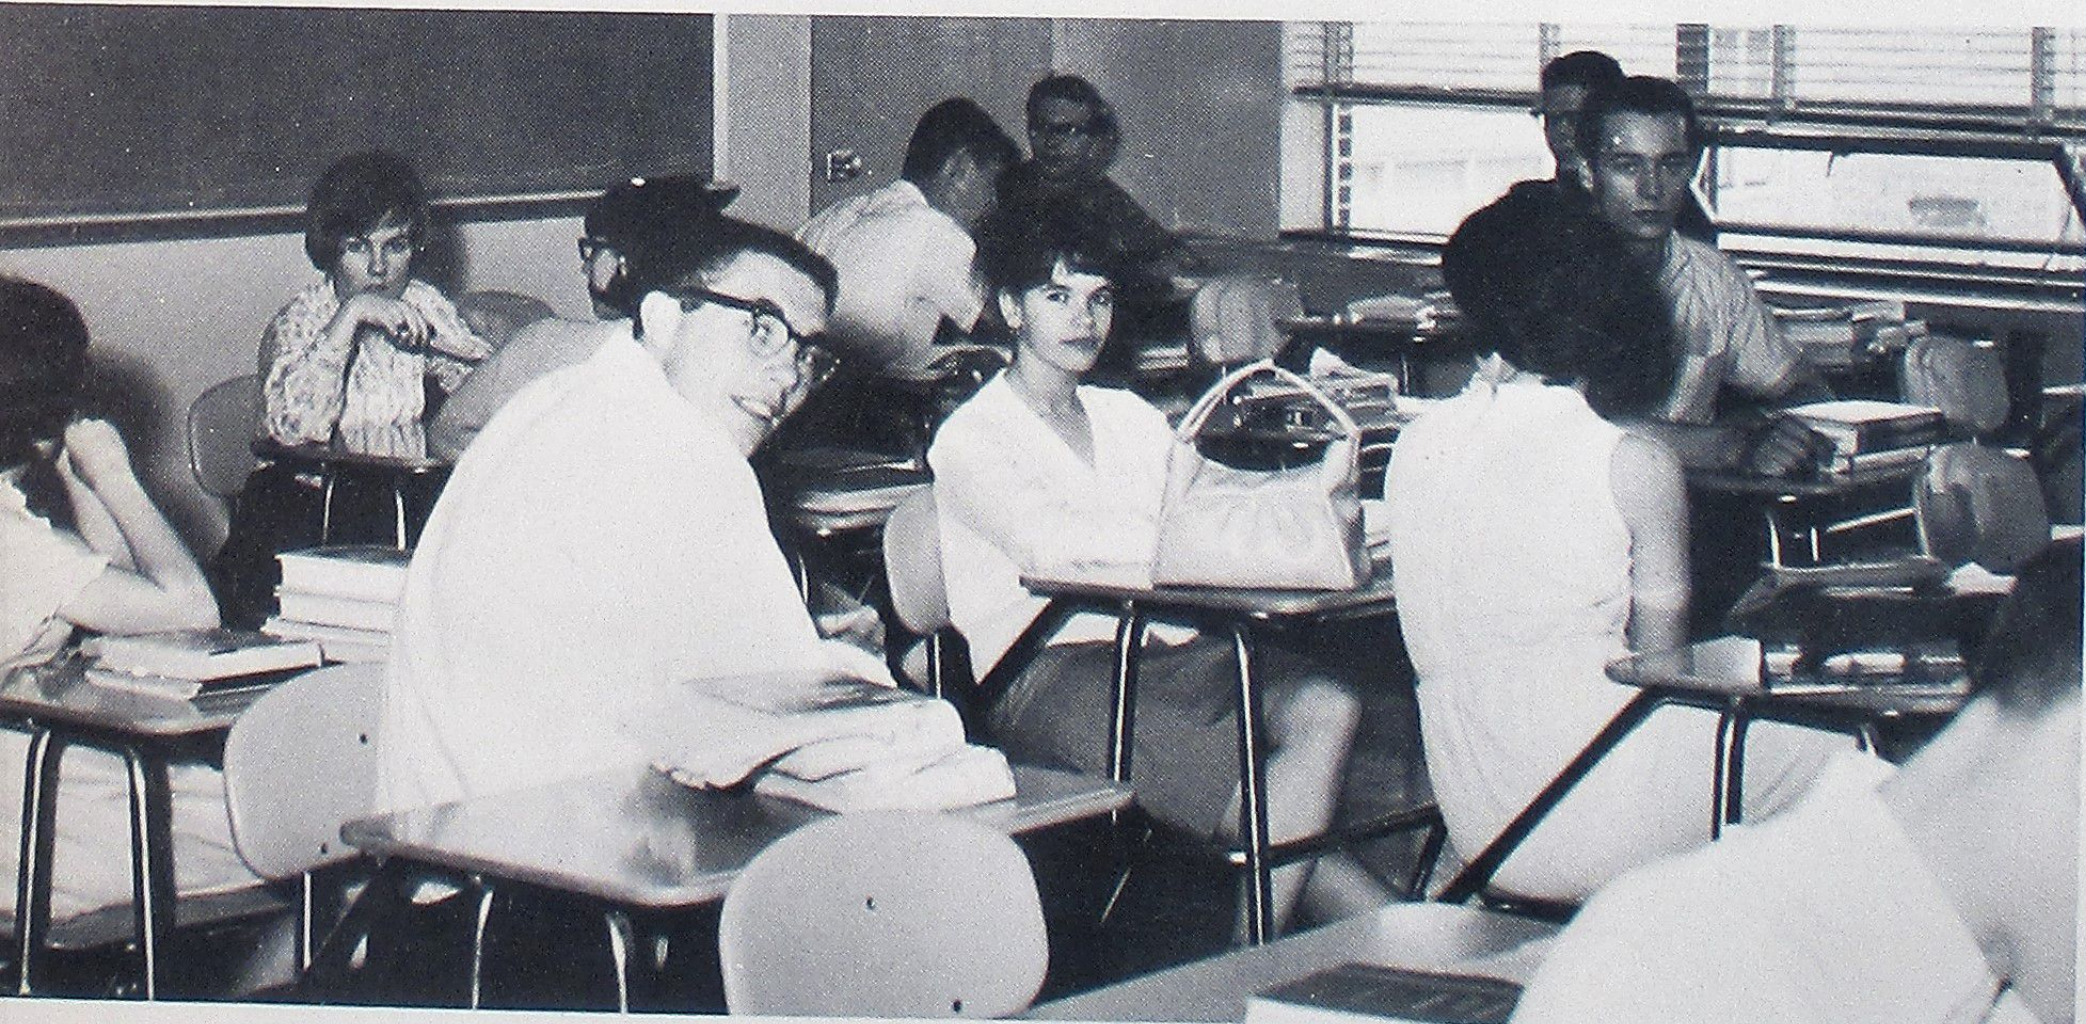

g) Not apportioning state aid according to 1946 property valuation figures.

CONANT REPORT

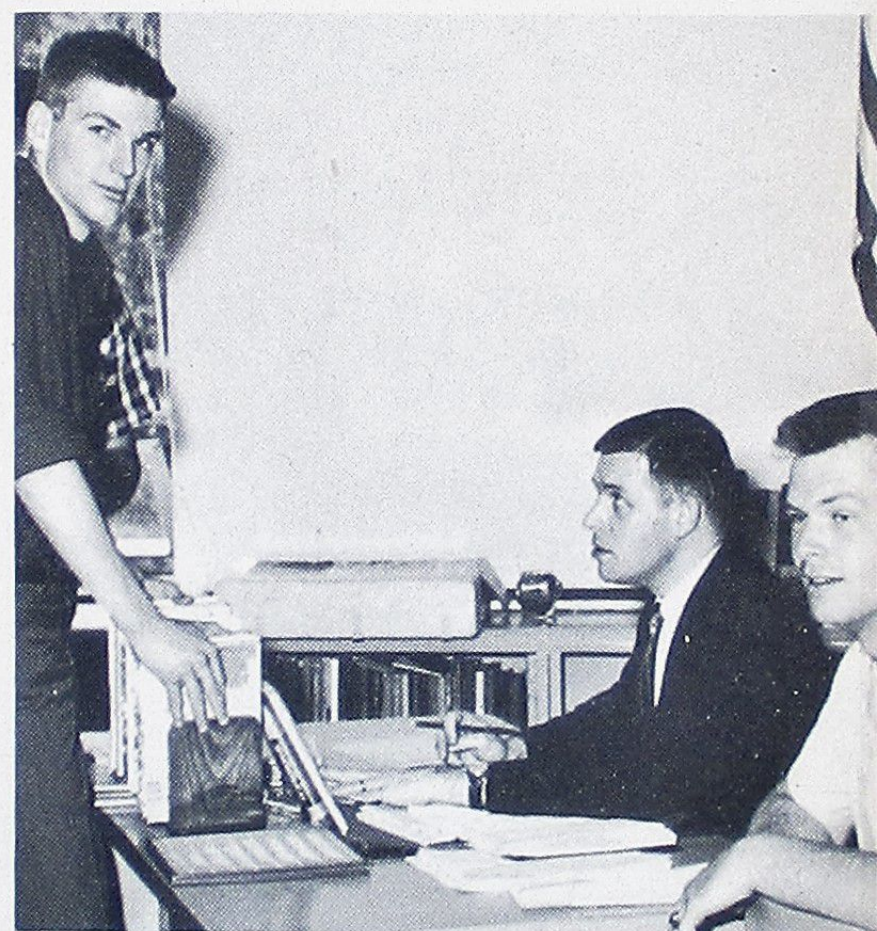

Experimental projects for the controversial teacher training reforms advocated by James B. Conant in The Education of American Teachers will be carried out in seven colleges and universities. These major changes advocated by Conant are:

1. Most of the responsibility for teacher certification will be placed on the institution training them rather than the state.
2. The task of on-the-job teacher training will be shifted to local school districts.
3. Classroom proficiency will be the chief criterion for certification.
4. State education officials will be made chiefly responsible for supervision of on-the-job training and practice teaching.

For the plan to be successful, Conant says, a vital interest must be developed at the colleges in teacher education.

Title I: To aid local school-district projects which help "educationally deprived children".

Title II: To provide monies to buy textbooks, and to expand school libraries, including the purchase of books, periodicals, phonograph records.

Title III: To uplift educational services to all students in public or private schools, in any way a local district sees fit.

Title IV: To provide monies for research contracts with any "university, college or other appropriate public or non-profit private agency."

Title V: To strengthen state departments of education, especially those that are understaffed, underpaid, and incompetent.

Adequate Library Facilities Increase Knowledge

"I will never do anything in my entire life that excites me more, or benefits the nation I serve more, or makes the land and all of its people better and wiser and stronger, or anything that I think means more to freedom and justice in the world than what we have done with this education bill," said President Johnson concerning the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, which provides federal aid to education under five separate titles:

Capacity Crowd . . . Critics Say Great

On December 11, 1965, the Senior Class presented the Millis premiere of "Are Teachers Human?", one of the most enjoyable plays ever viewed here at Millis High School.

Under the capable direction of Miss Christine Borgmann, assisted by Student Directors Jane Ford and Valarie Duncan, the cast worked diligently for many weeks to perfect the final presentation which was enthusiastically enjoyed by all.

Paris Comes To Millis

Last year's Junior Prom, "Evening in Paris", was one of the most enjoyable events of our high school years. Decorating meetings proved worthwhile as we produced an Arc de Triomphe and a miniature Eiffel Tower. The café awnings and sidewalk tables created the effect of the Champs Elysées. With the help of Mr. Leo Dugas and Mrs. Philip Gavin, our prom, with its intricate grand march, turned out to be an unforgettable, enchanting night for everyone.

"It must be your perfume!"

By staging the Junior Prom-Senior Reception at "The Meadows", the Junior Class can be credited with providing us with a truly enjoyable innovation. CLASS TRIP HIGHLIGHTS SENIOR YEAR

Following in the footsteps of last year's seniors, the Class of 1965 spent a wonderful day at Jug End in the Berkshires. There were so many things to do that we all wished we could have stayed longer. It was hard to find enough time for swimming, golf, softball, archery, horseback riding, and finding souvenirs. We can all agree that Mike Teague got the most from the trip. We only hope that next year's class will be able to follow in our footsteps.

CLASS DAY

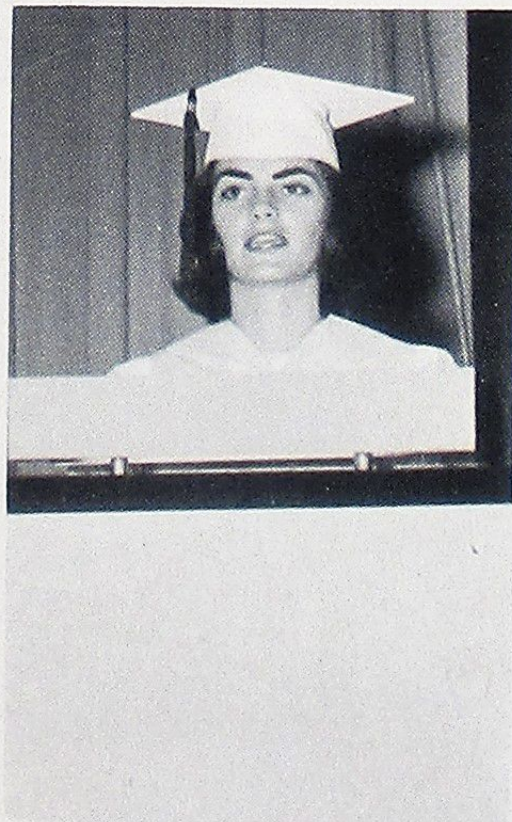

On June 9, 1965, the Senior Class, as such, entered the hallways of Millis High for the last time. As we paraded around the school, proudly showing off our caps and gowns, we could not help but feel a touch of sadness at the thoughts of forever leaving our childhood memories behind. Watching the underclassmen pass in review, we recalled the many times we had been in their places. We marched onto the stage and looked out at the audience, fully realizing that this was the first and last time we would be honored there before all the familiar faces.

CLASS BANQUET

On the Tuesday night before Graduation, our Class held one of its last group activities, the Senior Banquet. Held at the Rock Garden in Medway, the banquet, in the form of a dinner dance, proved to be an enjoyable evening for seniors and their dates. The high-point of the affair was the announcement of the dedication of the yearbook to Mrs. Mary A. Welch.

Large letters across the blackboard announced the Day Of Graduation as it slowly approached. All year we Seniors had waited and then, finally, the night had arrived. Robed in caps and gowns, we marched to the strains of Pomp and Circumstance, down the aisles of a familiar auditorium filled with familiar faces of parents, friends, and relatives. Suddenly the years of trial and tribulation seemed worth while.

Hours of rehearsals had not fully prepared us for the excitement of that evening. Fear ripped through us, but, in the true Millis tradition, we carried on through the program. We ceremoniously walked out — out from the shelter of our friends and happy memories, and into the world which awaits us.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

The other day I found an old scrapbook from my days in school. I began keeping news articles from my first day at school, beginning in kindergarten. I'll open the scrapbook and read some of the articles to you; this one is:

Kindergarten Class on Rampage

The kindergarten class of Millis goes on rampage during the first days of school. Besides playing elevator in Mrs. Kingsbury's closet, the tots stomped around the room, and fought in the sandbox.

Next is this article, which reads:

Students Cornered in First Grade

The first grade class of Millis has trouble keeping out of the corner. It seems they like to talk, so as a result they spend most of their time about face.

Here is the next interesting article:

Millis Second-Graders Disrupt Class and Teacher

Michael Shannon and Linda Kelley proceeded to take out a Chinese checker game the other day at school. When their teacher, Miss Brennan, discovered this, the game was quickly cancelled, and the two spent the rest of the day picking up marbles from the floor.

Thinking back, I remember our third year at the Millis Elementary School as more or less unexciting except for the constant daily threat from our teacher, Miss Horan, "I'll take you over my checkered apron!"

I recall well the fourth grade... Let me see, where is that clipping? — Oh, here it is:

Fourth Grade Class Debuts

The fourth graders of Millis made their theatrical debut. This unusual play turned out to be very "warming", as a curtain caught on fire. Due to the clear thinking of Sandy Cartier, the fire department was notified and the fire engines were there in no time to put out the blaze.

Another interesting article printed here is:

Fourth Grade J. D.'s Turn Class into Bedlam

The fourth grade J. D.'s from Mrs. Beard's room wreaked havoc with a small-scale sword fight. This resulted in about thirteen of the J. D.'s being sent to the principal's office. Linda Kelley and Cheryl Bright were left holding the ruler.

Here is the article from Grade 5:

Millis Fifth Graders Form Gangs

The fifth graders of Millis have formed two gangs which might prove harmful to the peace-abiding citizens of the town. The leaders of the gangs are Kip Cushman and Ron Mallette. The wars have taken place on Richardson's Pond, on the school playground, and in the school cafeteria . . . with peas. What are we citizens to do?

I can't find any article about Grade 6, but I remember well the Halloween party at Fred Heustis' house when Val Duncan washed her hair with apple cider, and Fred took up the art of weightlifting. And Kippy, what were you doing behind the rocks on the softball field? Then there was the day the world was going to end. That day our vivid imaginations nearly brought about a panic. We saw a white ring around the sun, and annihilation was our first thought. Oh, well, we did think the world was going to end.

In the seventh grade, our thoughts were directed towards winning the prize for having the most beautifully decorated homeroom at Christmas time. We did win, and all our efforts were not in vain.

Here is the article about our eighth grade year:

Science Boom at Millis High School

The eighth graders of Millis High School develop their knowledge of science by experimenting with polliwogs. Students tried to see if the polliwogs could live in Lestoil. Polliwogs can't. I'm afraid a few eighth-graders will fail science this year.

Ninth grade brought our initiation. Michael Cunningham and Barbara Breen proved to be the best little "kids" of the year. During our second year in high school, we were really beginning to feel like high school students.

Here is the Junior Prom article which appeared on the society page:

Paris Comes to Millis

The Junior Class enjoyed the most exciting event of the year . . . an "Evening in Paris". Many decorating meetings (or parties) led up to this special night in their lives.

Senior Year was the greatest. Our senior boys and girls proved to be the best athletes Millis High School ever produced. A few of the headlines were:

Trophy-Winning Grid Team Defeats Arch-Rivals on Thanksgiving Day

Best Season for Millis Hoopsters

Cheerleaders Win Third Place in Cheering Tournament

Then it was time for our senior play, Are TEACHERS Human?. That was what we tried to find out, and aided by the almost professional acting of Barbara Breen and Ronnie Mallette, we did conclude that teachers are human.

I remember one specific article about our yearbook — Oh, here it is:

The Mohawk Becomes Best Seller

The Millis High School Yearbook, The Mohawk, co-edited by Leslie Krewson and Fred Heustis, is proving to be one of the best sellers of the year. The time and effort spent by Pat Thorne, Literary Editor, Ronnie Mallette, Business Editor, Mike Cunningham, Copy Editor, Lynn Merkle, Art Editor, and all staff members is paying off. Their book is tops on the list.

Oh, what is this?

Seniors Hold Car Wash

Last Saturday the Seniors of Millis High School held a car wash at the Millis Transportation Company. When it was all over, it was very apparent that most of the seniors were cleaner than the cars. Right, Michael???

Here's another article:

It's Prom Time Again

The Millis High School Seniors are to be the guests at the M. H. S. Junior Prom. They are to be presented. This year, for the first time, the prom was held outside the school. It took place at The Meadows in Framingham, and the Juniors entitled it "Longer Than Always".

Here is a comical article:

Chaos Hits Jug End

The Millis High School Seniors went to Jug End in the Berkshires on their class trip. Once off the busses, the sixty students "took off" in all different directions. Some headed for the stables, some the recreation hall, some the tennis courts, others the golf course and the swimming pool. Most everyone went swimming of his own accord, with one or two notable exceptions. . . Right, Mr. Wilson??? Everyone had a wonderful time, and all arrived home suffering from sunburn, the common cold, and complete exhaustion.

Oh, here is an article concerning an event which I remember well:

Rock Garden Hosts Seniors

The Rock Garden, last night, hosted the Seniors at their class banquet. The meal was enjoyed by all, as was the dance floor during the latter part of the evening. Everyone was entertained by the singing of Peggy Johnson and later by the singing of the class trio, Judy Manning, Joan Carruth, and Val Duncan.

The last article in my scrapbook is:

Millis Graduates Largest Class Ever

Millis High School graduates the largest class in its history on June 10, 1965. These proud graduates are off to live in the big world and to become the leaders who will cope with the world's problems.

After looking back on the past experiences of the class, I doubt if the world is ready for us; but I think that we're ready for almost anything!

Patricia Thorne

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

Most of us have heard of Orwell's novel, 1984. The other day I went into the time machine and found a newspaper from 1984, and now I want to read some interesting articles from that paper to you. The headlines read:

Cunningham Wins Election

Michael Cunningham, the Democratic candidate for president, and his running mate, Terrance O'Quinn, were victorious over Republican candidates, Joan Carruth and David Kuendig, by a margin of 146 million popular votes. After a short conference with reporter Leslie Krewson, Cunningham left for a brief vacation.

In other national news:

America Reaches Moon

Sources at Cape Kennedy announced today that a rocket manned by the eminent nuclear physicist, Dr. Richard Booth, has landed on the moon. Astronauts Rodney Forrest and Donald Olson have reported conditions to be rather primitive.

Elsewhere in the world:

Situation in Latin America Worsens

The friction between U. S. citizens and Latin Americans has become more pronounced because of a faulty translation of a treaty. The fatal error has been attributed to interpreter Judith Manning. Despite conciliatory attempts made by our ambassador, Philip Roberts, the situation continues to worsen, and American forces under the command of General Paul Todd have been ordered to evacuate the area.

Now let's see if there is anything on the war in Southeast Asia . . . Oh! Here it is:

War in Southeast Asia Continues

American troops are still battling in Southeast Asia. Tactical Commanders Dana Ehrlinger and Michael McGann are slowly gaining ground. Casualties have been heavy, and Army nurses Bonny Barrett, Cheryl Bright, Barbara Breen, and Patricia Thorne have been decorated for service while under fire.

While I was looking for the article on Southeast Asia, I happened to glance at another interesting article, which said:

Elwinger Sets Record Shorthand Speed

During a recent examination for stenographers, Elaine Elwinger demonstrated her amazing ability to take shorthand at a rate of three hundred words a minute. Miss Elwinger said that she had been using a new system invented by Christine Hurley, who intends to write a book about her technique in the near future. The book will be published by Norman Bartony.

The latest news on the Civil Rights battle reads:

Civil Rights Demonstration Turns To Riot

A peaceful Civil Rights demonstration turned into a riot yesterday after the crowd was fomented by speeches by Civil Rights leaders Ronald Mallette and James Casey. The situation was so far out of hand that State troopers Wayne Carlson, Robert Roy, and Ronald Peiler were called to restore order.

On the financial page I see that:

Fink Buys Out Ford Motor Company

Clifford Jestings, vice-president of the Jet Rocket Company, told reporters today that an agreement between Robert Fink, president of the rocket company, and Kenneth Cushman, manager of the Ford Motor Company, resulted in a takeover of the Ford Motor Company by the Jet Rocket Company.

According to the movie page there aren't any good movies playing next week, but the newest, zaniest, and most talked about "beat" group of the year — Stephen Payson, Patricia McLaughlin, and Francis Spinoza — will appear at the local theater next week. If you are interested in seeing this new group, buy your tickets now.

Looking at the society page, I see that there are going to be many fund-raising events to help provide money to do research about the moon. Here is an excerpt from that article:

The recent landing on the moon has caused much concern as to how people are to live there. An organization under the direction of Donald Coldwell has been formed to do research on this project. Linda Lee is designing houses which will endure the weather changes on the moon. Linda Levine is designing clothes to help people adjust to these changes. Nutritionist Donna Sette is searching for new ways to prepare green cheese, and Carolyn Wakefield and Paula Glynn are undertaking a study of moon medicine.

All of these projects require a good deal of money, and this week there will be three outstanding events to finance them.

The first event will be the appearance of comedienne Linda Kelley, along with famous opera singer Peggy Johnson.

The following evening Sandra Cartier and Mike Teague will appear. Super-salesman Michael Teague will try to promote the sale of a new drug which Miss Cartier has invented. The biography of the famous biologist Miss Cartier will be written by author Donna Oberts.

The third and most eagerly awaited event will be the appearance of June Ingraham, the famous playwright, who will present her newest work. The setting and the costumes will be designed by artist Valarie Duncan. A dinner will be served before the play by Elizabeth Matthews and Virginia Lee.

Oh! Here is another interesting article:

Shannon to Lecture

Professor Michael Shannon will lecture this evening on the results of a series of experiments dealing with the effects of gas on certain types of fish.

Here are several advertisements which I want to read to you:

If you would like to make a dress or have one made for you, see Karen Anderson at Karen's Dress Shop. A fashion show is being planned in which Karen will feature some of her "ultra" designs. These gowns will be modeled by Lynn Merkle and Jane Ford.

Dixie Mosher and Marie Pelletier announce the grand opening of their beauty salon. Come on in and get your new "space style" hairdo!

Give your cocker spaniel the best of care while you are away! Board him at Marie Moran's Kennels!

The students of Sandra McFetridge's Dance Studio will hold their first annual recital tomorrow. Patricia Warren's piano students will provide music for the affair.

If you have trouble with your car, take it to Victor Leontie's Service Station where Vic and his mechanics, Richard Jones and Frank La Croix, will make it run like new.

Finally, for all sports fans, here is the sports news:

At the Winter Olympics of 1984, the skiing championship was won by David Hinchliffe and Daniel Senatro, with Fred Heustis taking first place in the bobsled race.

The women also made a good showing, with Jean Parks as champion figure skater.

At home, the annual Patriot's Day Marathon was won by Paul Mosher and William Toffling.

Gary Stockbridge won the game for the Red Sox by breaking the tie in the twelfth inning.

Well, according to this paper taken from the time machine, the Millis High School Class of 1965 will go on to become even more illustrious than it is at present.

Judith Manning

SENIOR CLASS WILL

Being of sound mind and body, we, the Class of 1965, do hereby make this our last will and testament, hereby revoking all wills heretofore made by us.

After fulfilling our obligations to Millis High School, we bequeath the following:

- To Dr. Roy and The School Committee we leave much gratitude for their concern for the advancement of our class.
- To Mr. Vellante we leave our most sincere appreciation for the leadership he has given us during our four years at Millis High.
- To Mr. Doyle we leave an invisible shield for future use in surprising students in the hallways with his silent "hellos".
- To Mrs. Gavin we leave "Anchors Aweigh" and the last formal grand march.
- To Mr. Dugas we leave our sincere thanks for his continuing willingness to help us with our small, but important problems.
- To Mr. Damon we leave a detailed report on the battle at "Pottawattamee" Creek.
- To Mrs. Welch we leave our deep affection, but we will return soon for additional grammar lessons.
- To Mr. Benes we leave one of the most interesting and unique English IV classes Millis has ever had.
- To Miss Riou we leave a complete set of "clean" gym suits for future classes of "physically fit" seniors.
- To Mr. Farley we leave a gold-plated 10' by 10' plaque with the numbers 221425 inscribed on it for the benefit of next year's seniors.
- To Miss Strathern we leave a now silent library, vacant of all seniors.
- To Mr. Nelson we leave a genuine all-wool fabric suit, so that next year he may have "better material".
- To Mr. Davis we leave saying, "Smile, we really understood the chemistry and physics".
- To Mrs. Geller we leave one pint-sized girl to fill the large void created by our departure.
- Sandra Cartier leaves all her worries as senior class president to all future senior class presidents.

William Toffling leaves the football coach with tears in his eyes.

Patricia Thorne leaves a collection of jokes for Mr. Dugas's next French IV class.

Carolyn Wakefield leaves her physical fitness to the gym class.

Ronald Mallette leaves his baseball "hitting ability" to Tommy Connors.

Michael Cunningham leaves for the White House with his eloquent speeches in his briefcase.

Richard Booth leaves his crackers and milk to Miss McDonnell.

Elaine Elwinger leaves with happy memories of her years spent at M.H.S.

Paula Glynn leaves a trail of car parts from Millis to Medfield.

Frank LaCroix leaves his green Plymouth to anyone who dares to drive it.

Patricia Warren leaves her string of boys' rings behind her.

Lynn Merkle leaves for the "other" Notre Dame.

Donna Sette leaves to go down to the dairy.

Francis Spinoza leaves school conveniently on the day of a test.

Michael Shannon leaves in a hurry.

Patricia McLaughlin leaves her ability to lead a cheering squad to next year's co-captains.

David Hinchliffe and Daniel Senatro leave two pair of skis and twelve hours of detention to anyone who wants them.

Bonny Barrett leaves a recipe for applesauce cake to Mrs. Geller.

Linda Lee leaves a potted pink geranium to Mr. Doyle for his next year's geography class.

Fred Heustis leaves yearbook meetings early for his nightly trips to Tiberiville.

Leslie Krewson leaves her heart-felt sympathy to the editors of next year's yearbook.

Cheryl Bright leaves Mr. Dugas sadly, and leaves Louis the 14th with a new pair of textured nylons.

Jane Ford leaves her "Studebaker Taxi Service" to whoever wants it, especially for trips to Medfield.

Norman Bartony leaves his white shoes to Clifford Burnett for his nightly trips in the Medway woods.

Dana Ehrlinger leaves with hopes of future success at Framingham State College.

Dixie Mosher leaves to find future happiness.

Jeanne Parks leaves Jimmy and Opal, formerly in excellent condition.

Peggy Johnson leaves her purple-fingered witch costume to whoever thinks that he can use it.

David Kuendig leaves his "delinquent English papers" to anyone who will write them.

Kenneth Cushman leaves, headed for Chamberlayne Junior College.

Virginia Lee leaves, someday to return to England and the Beatles.

June Ingraham leaves her acting ability to next year's senior play cast.

James Casey leaves a bottle of suntan lotion to Nancy Webber.

Valarie Duncan leaves her parents tired from all her parties.

Linda Kelley leaves her book entitled, How to Date, While Remaining Faithful to your Boyfriend in the Service.

Robert Fink leaves his scenery painting ability to next year's cast.

Linda Levine leaves a certain boy at M. H. S.

Rodney Forrest leaves chemistry class in a hurry.

Clifford Jestings leaves Mrs. Barrett with a headache.

Christine Hurley leaves her nine o'clock curfew to those who like to be home early.

Donna Oberts leaves her position on the Mohawk Messenger staff to Patricia Rhyne.

Karen Anderson leaves her typing ability to Terry Lyons.

Stephen Payson leaves his kidding questions to any girl who can answer them.

Robert Roy leaves to follow in his father's footsteps.

Ronald Peiler leaves his baseball abilities to Michael Nix.

Marie Pelletier leaves to meet a certain Millis boy.

Michael McGann leaves for Medway in his new Chevy.

Marie Moran leaves her Friden machine to anyone who can make it work.

Donald Olson leaves with a certain identification bracelet.

Judith Manning leaves the Class Prophecy for many future laughs.

Donald Coldwell exits as he entered . . . quietly.

Richard Jones leaves to see the world and to find future success.

Paul Todd leaves his motor scooter to his brother so that he can complete the trip to Medway.

Paul Sarris leaves in search of a nice soft lawn.

Victor Leontie leaves with his stockcar for the Norwood Arena in hopes of winning first place.

Philip Roberts leaves plenty of stretching room in history class.

Joan Carruth leaves all her Beatle records to Mr. Benes.

Elizabeth Matthews leaves Senior Office Practice with no regrets.

Michael Teague leaves arguing.

Paul Mosher leaves Mr. Wilson's history class willingly.

Terrance O'Quinn leaves for Nova Scotia.

Wayne Carlson leaves in his new '62 Dodge.

Barbara Breen leaves the leading role in the senior play to next year's senior play star.

Finally, we, the Class of 1965, leave M.H.S. regretfully, hopeful that we are adequately prepared for all our future endeavors.

In testimony whereof, we, the Class of 1965, hereunto set our hand, this ninth day of June, in the year of our Lord, One thousand, Nine hundred and Sixty-five.

THE JUNIOR CLASS

A Great Class—Juniors

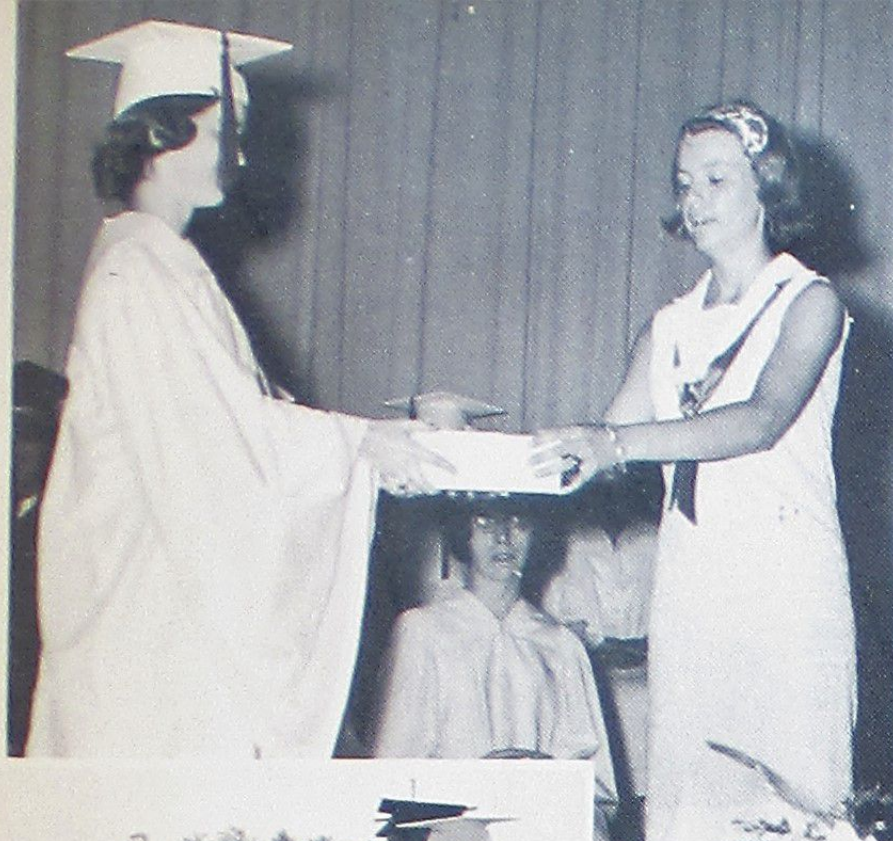

Our class could be summed up in one word—GREAT—but that would not suit the purpose of this write-up and would not fill in enough space, so I shall have to expand on this adjective.

Just look at our officers — Bonnie, Joel, Nancy, and Rachel. Now you know where all the "brilliant" leadership in our class comes from! Dave Thorne and Peter MacFarland are always advocating buying hotdogs and book-covers; therefore, they're on the Student Council. They are also celebrities since they are our Boys' State Representatives.

Herbert Lannon Accepts Harvard
Book Award

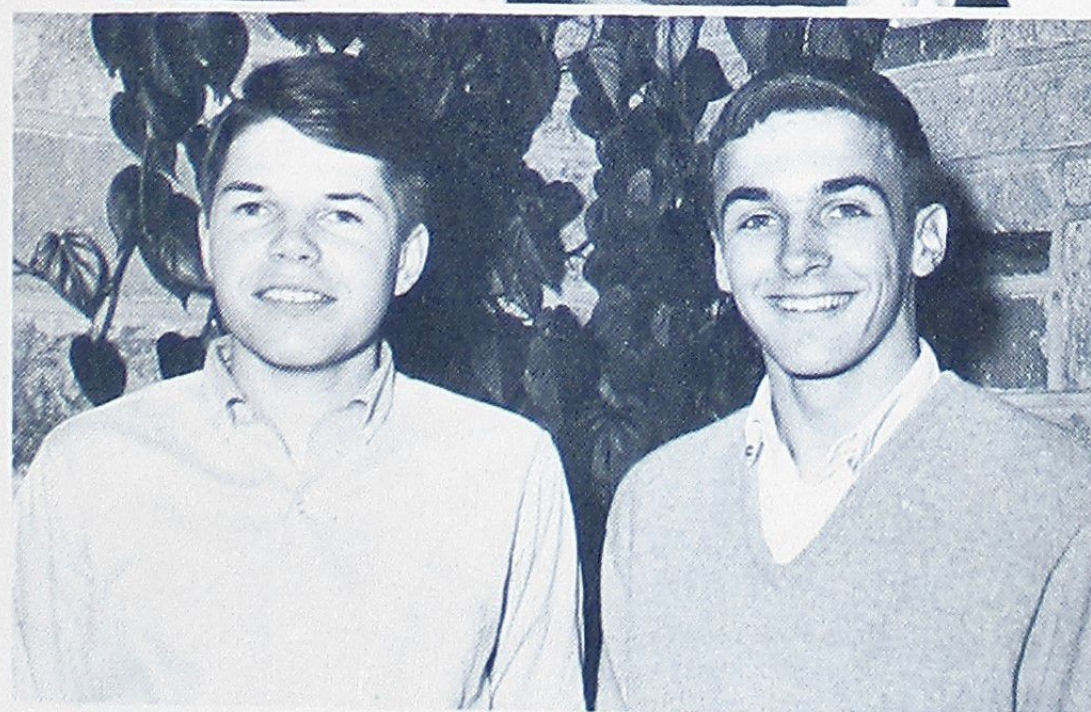

The National Honor Society is 1 per cent Seniors, 99 per cent Juniors; we have leadership, GENIUS, and looks. Meredyth March, Laura Saunders, Mady Weinstein, Mike Nix, Paul Starkis, Linda Levy, Joseph Hersey, Bert Lannon, Judy Noyes, Mary Palashewski, Nancy Webber and Pat Rhyne hold the place as "thinkers" in our class. For personality and bounce, Kathy Breen, Janis Carter, Pam Bartlett and Franny Powell lead the group, starring as cheerleaders. Pam also is Millis' Representative at Girls' State.

I am not saying that the other classes aren't nice; it's just that ours is BEST.

THE SOPHOMORE CLASS

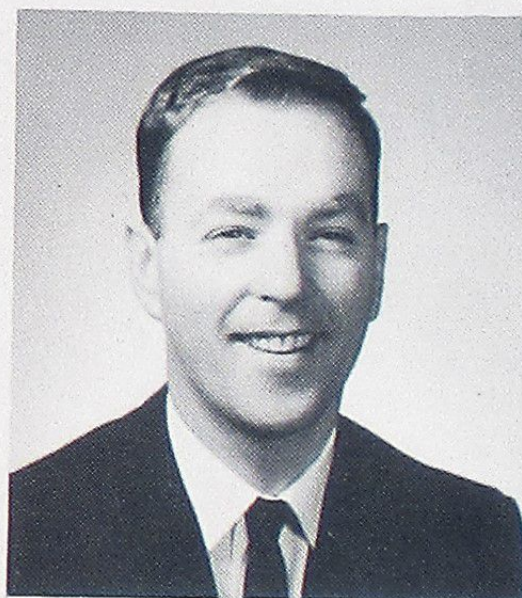

OFFICERS

T. Moran, Secretary, M. Glynn, Vice-president,

We've just accustomed ourselves to the idea of not being "last, lowest, and least," and now here we are ordering our class rings. Looking back over our sophomore year we can't help but feel more than a little pride that it was a sophomore, Vincent Toffling, who won the grand award in The Science Fair. We're proud, too, that Rusty Cushman and Suzanne Beaudet were recognized as provisional members of the National Honor Society. This proves, to us at least, that our class has brains as well as beauty.

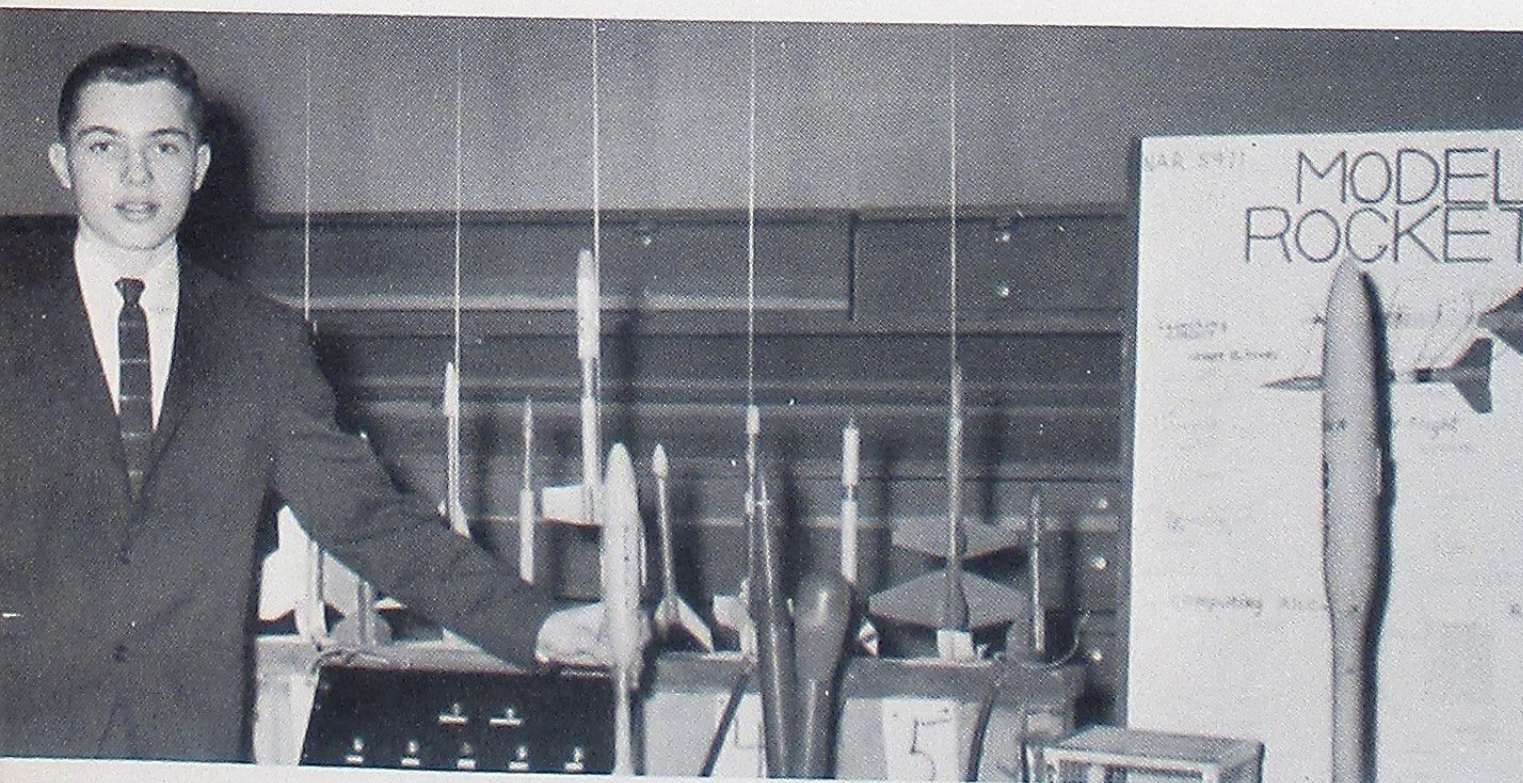

We have brawn, too. Sophomores led our football team to glory. As a matter of fact, there wasn't a single sport that didn't benefit from our muscle power.

Next year, as upperclassmen, you won't be able to hold us down.

THE FRESHMAN CLASS

Our "baby year" at M. H. S.
Has been a lot of fun;
But now we leave for greater things,
Our freshman "work" is done.

Though nothing great we did, it's true,

FREDERICK J. WELCH MEMORIAL DEDICATION

On Friday evening, October 11, the Millis High School football field was dedicated to the memory of Mr. Frederick J. Welch, whose contributions to the Town of Millis and especially to its youth, can never be forgotten.

"Seventy-two feet, no trouble!"

Track Team Places Second in Regional Meet

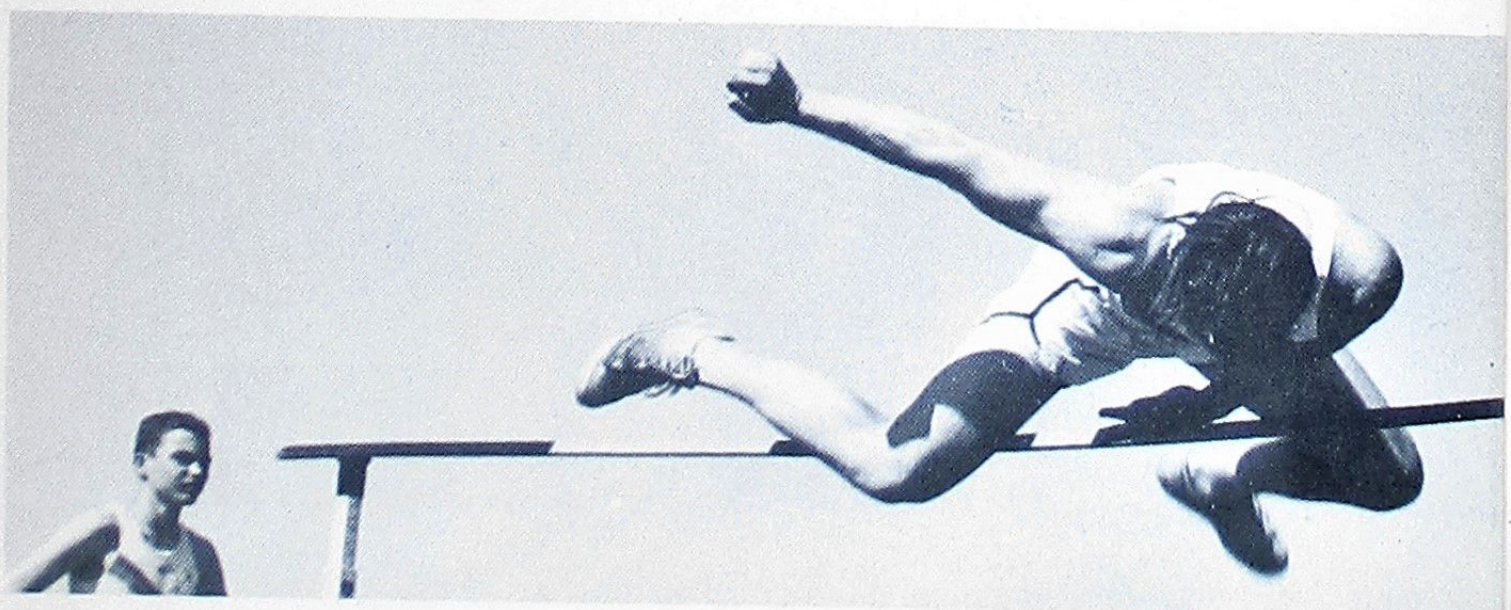

Coach Nelson must have thought it was still the football season. His track team finished the regular league season with four wins and three losses, while they placed second in a five-team regional meet. Almost every school record was broken several times over during this year's successful session. Although losing three valuable seniors, another successful year would seem inevitable.

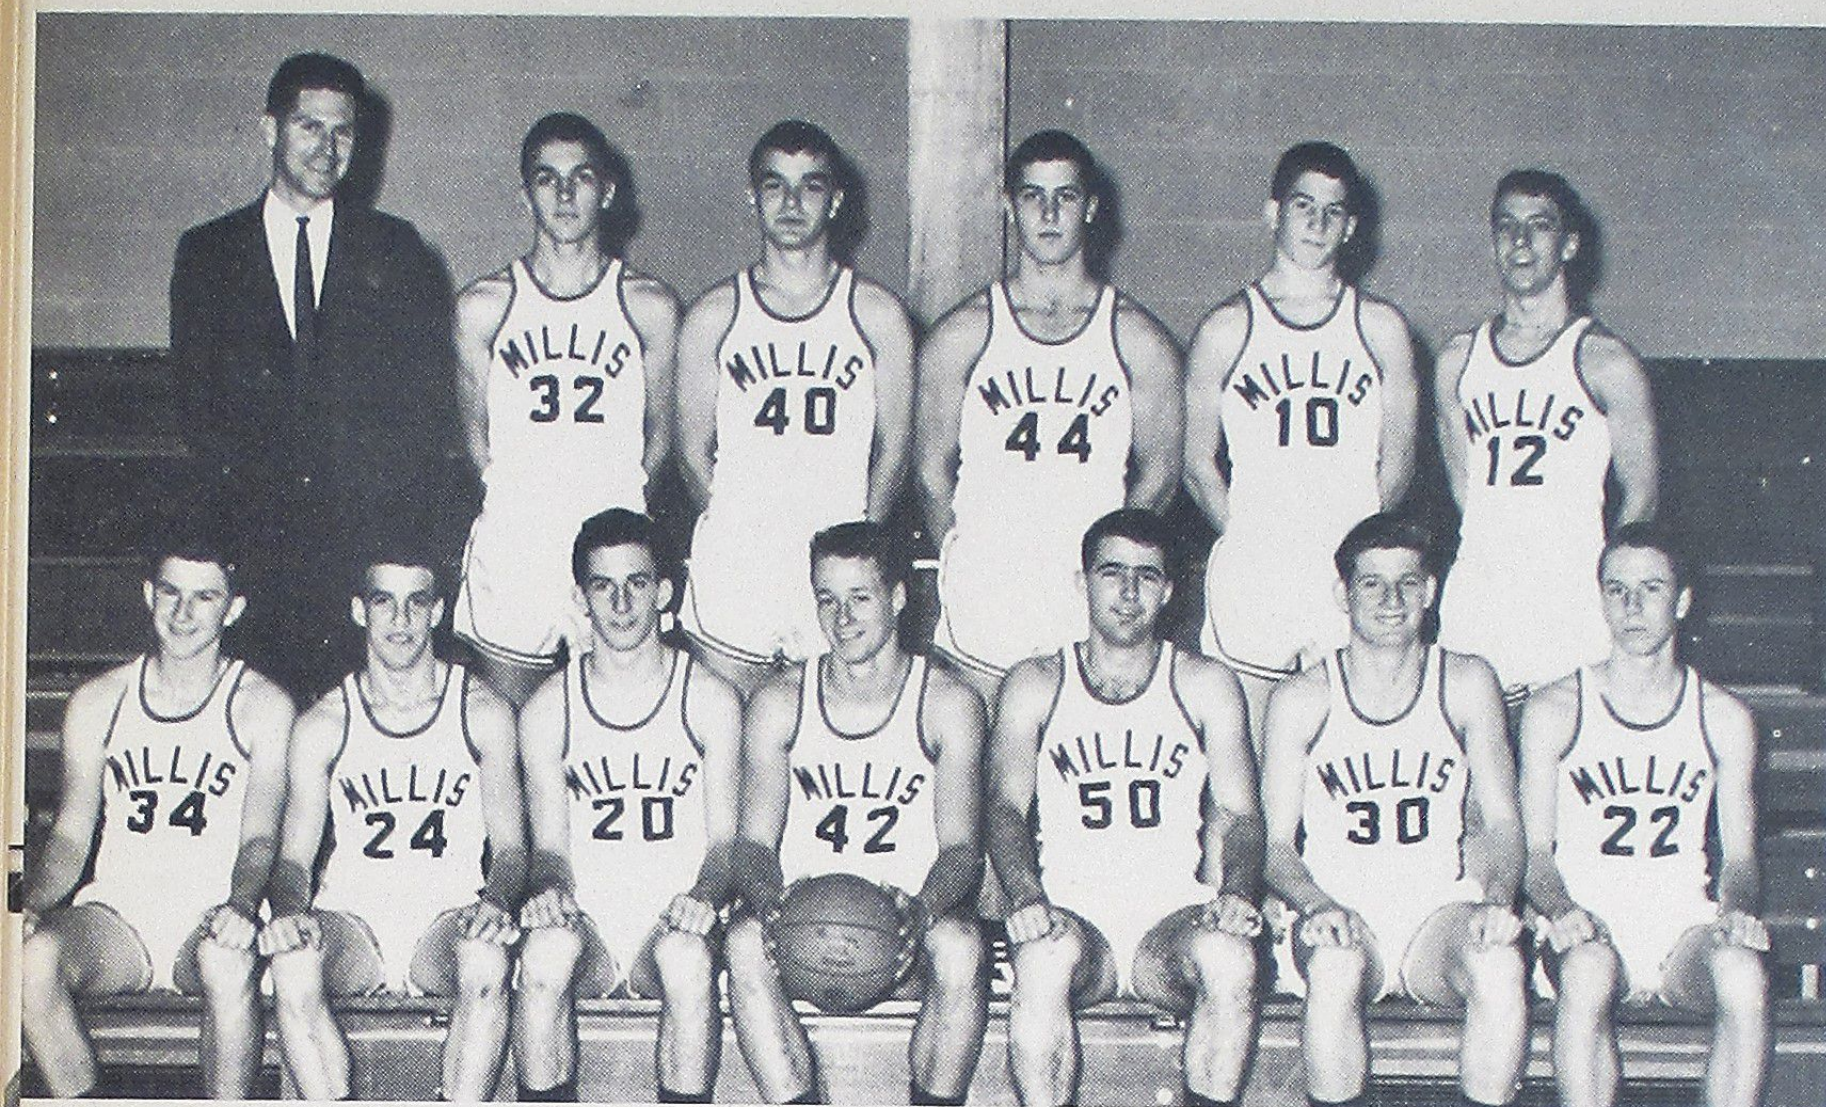

"I think I can—I think I can!"

BOYS' BASKETBALL

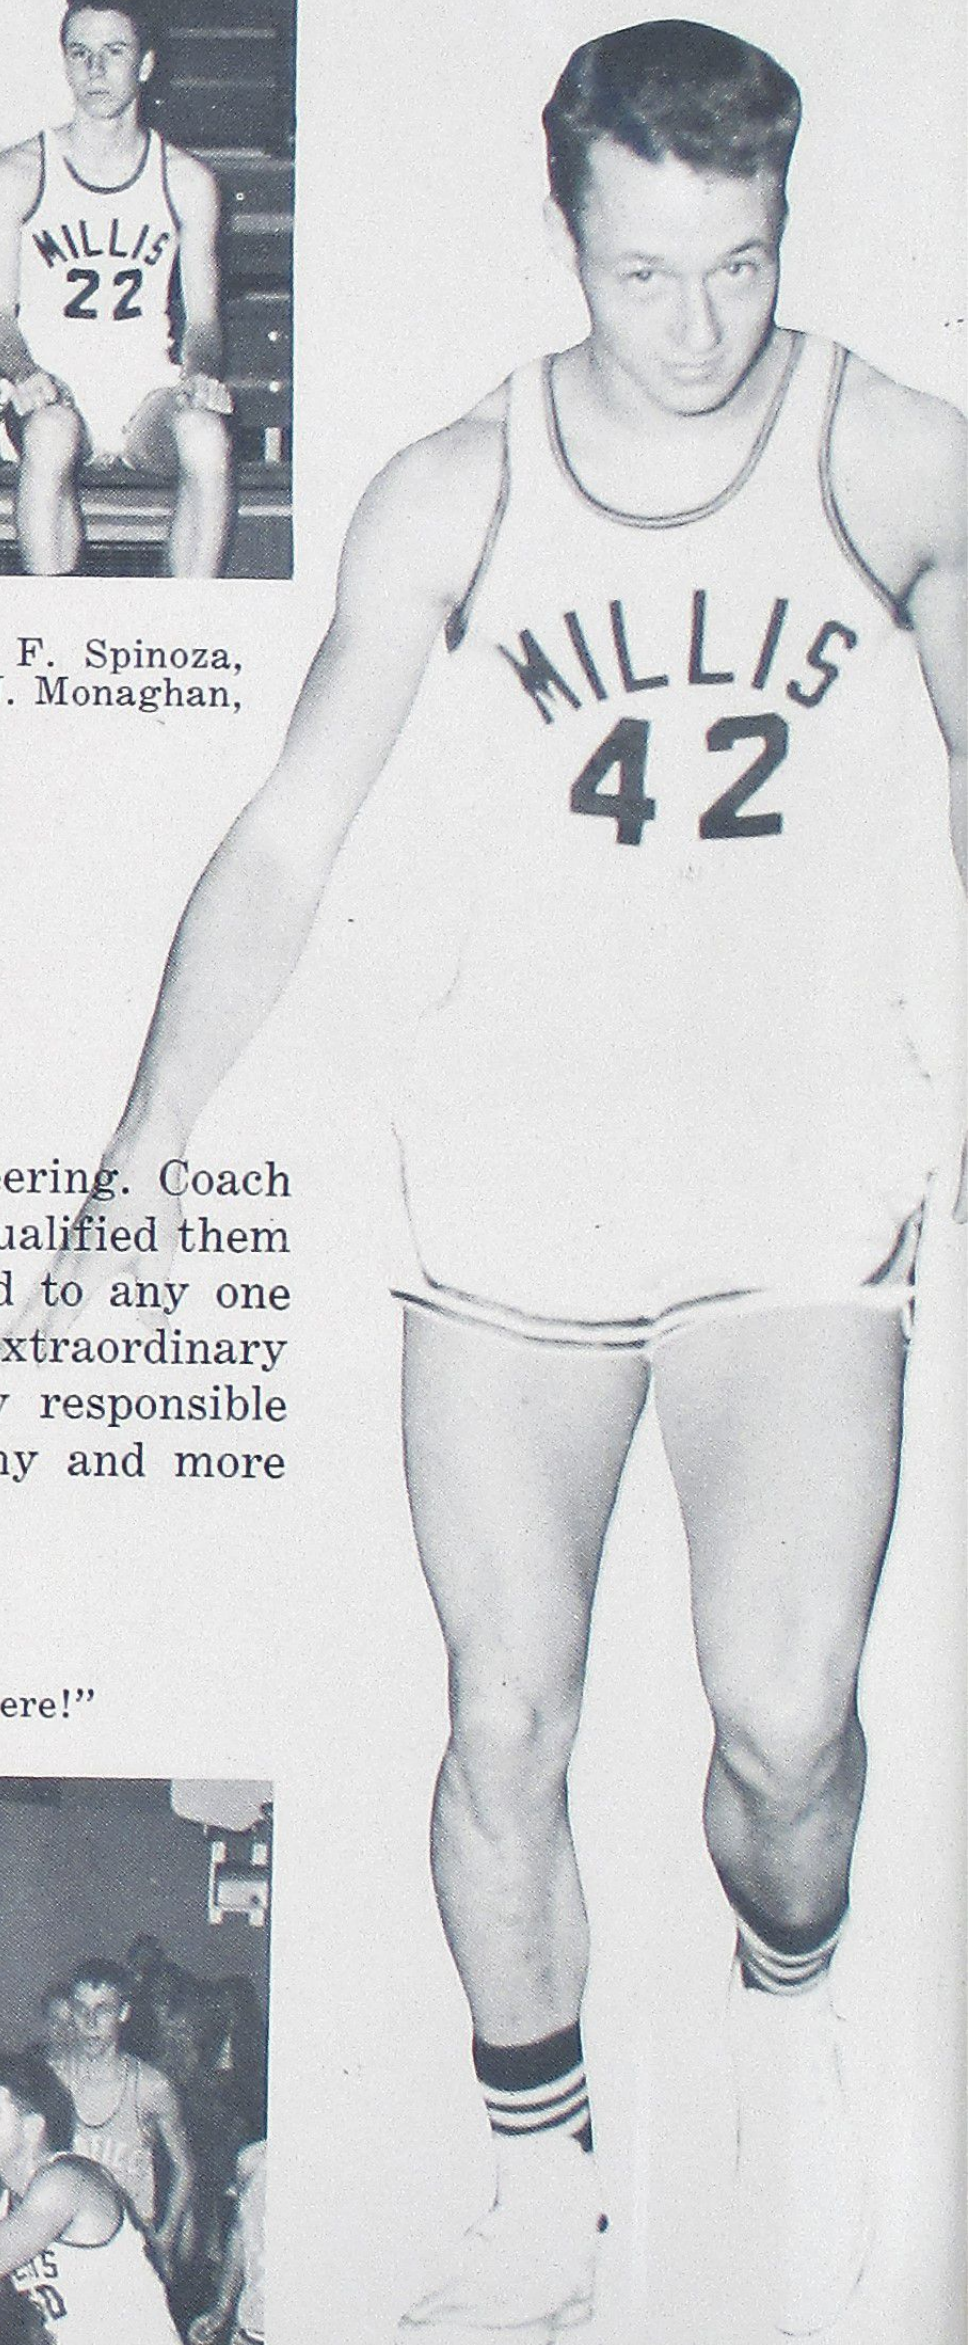

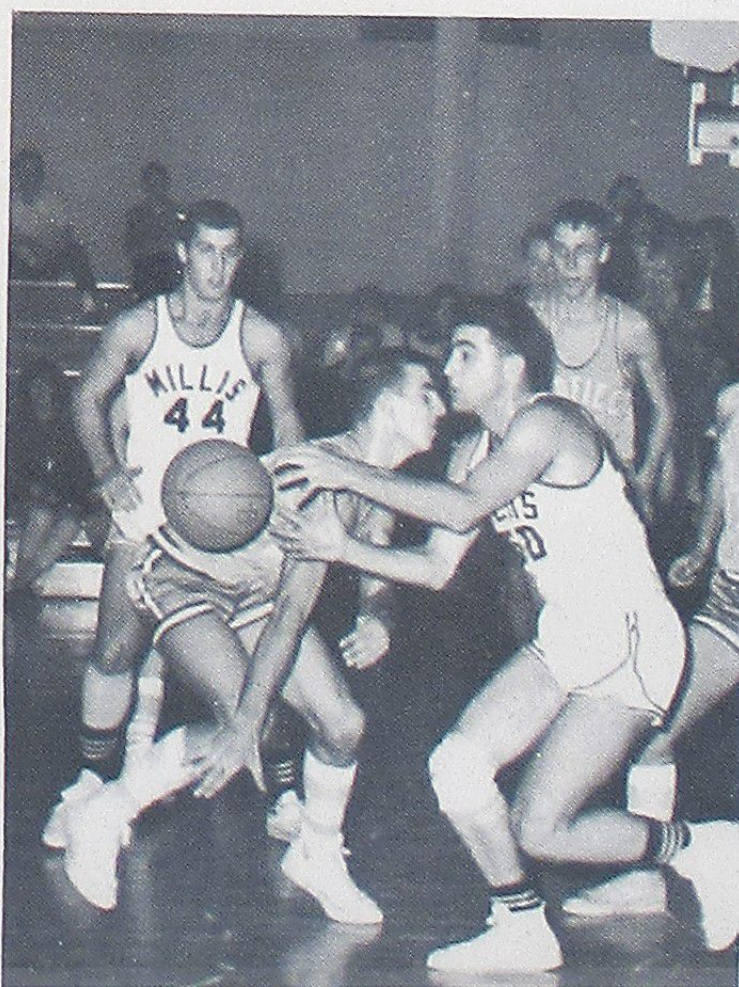

Millis Basketball Team Breaks Record

Basketball at Millis this year sent the fans home cheering. Coach Tewey's five racked up an impressive 14-2 record which qualified them for the Tech Tourney. These victories cannot be credited to any one player because the boys functioned as a unit, displaying extraordinary teamwork. Although the four seniors were substantially responsible for the excellent record, next year there will be as many and more who will bring home numerous victories.

BASEBALL

BASEBALL TEAM IMPROVES

This year Millis had a little trouble getting their good hitting days to coincide with their good pitching days. As a result, the season was not entirely successful, although much experience was gained by the underclassmen. With the initiation of a JV team more freshmen and sophomores had a chance to play. This promoted more interest in the game, and our varsity squad should improve as these rookies move up.

Millis Cheerleaders Rank

The ten little Indians of the Mohawk Cheering Squad shouted and stomped like warriors throughout the football and basketball seasons. Pat McLaughlin and Sandy Cartier led the enthusiastic group through a victory-laden year that players and students will long remember. An exceptional football season of eight wins made the devoted cheerleaders elated that they were on the side lines rooting for their victorious team.

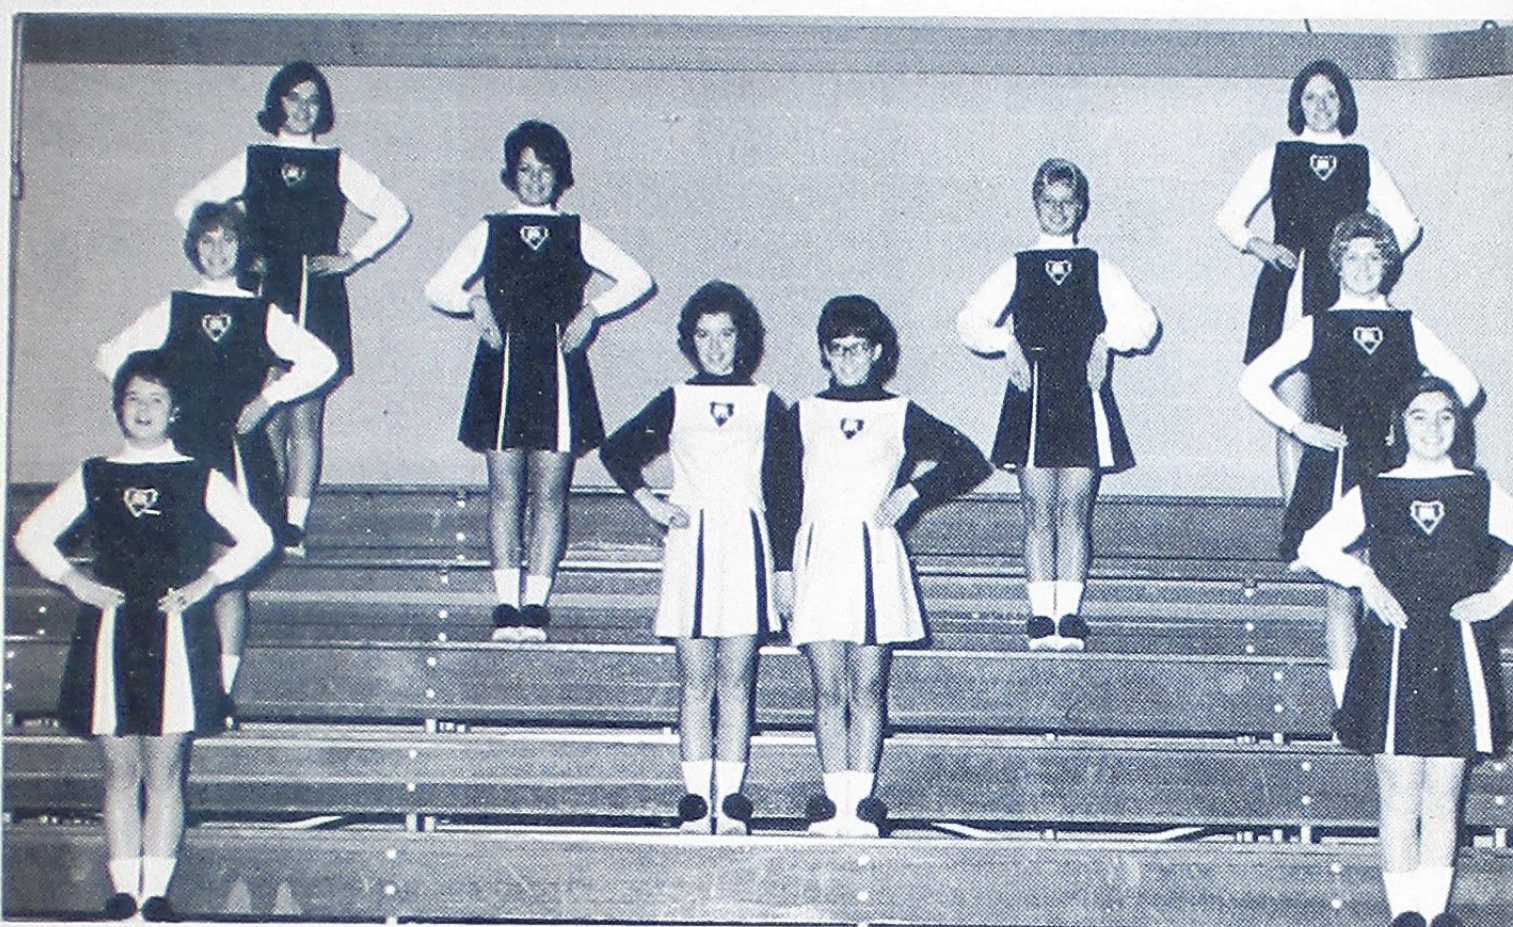

"All together 1-2-3!"

Seniors: J. Parks, C. Bright, S. Cartier, and P. McLaughlin.

The basketball season added more joy to their happiness as the team established the best record ever at Millis. Not to be outdone by the boys, the girls proved their own excellence by capturing third-place honors in the Tri-County Cheerleading Tournament, a first for Millis. "Let's give a rousing cheer for Millis . . ."

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

GIRLS' BASKETBALL POPULAR SPORT

The girls on the basketball team have been a credit to our school this year. Although the victories were not as numerous as anticipated, the girls displayed the desire to win and that kind of sportsmanship which brings pride to a school. Under the supervision of their coach, Miss Riou, the team showed great improvement over previous seasons, and many valuable experiences were gained for future years.

FIELD HOCKEY

ROOKIES STRENGTHEN FIELD HOCKEY TEAM

Although Miss Riou's field hockey team had a losing season—two wins and four losses—the girls were successful in achieving cooperation, sportsmanship, and good spirit, necessary elements for a well-played game. Hard work and rigid practice sessions resulted in a well-trained, disciplined team. Future hopes are based on the eighth-and ninth-graders, who turned out in good numbers this year. With further work and development next year promises to be a success in every way.

SOFTBALL

GIRLS WIN MORE GAMES

Although not compiling a very impressive record, the girls on the softball team did improve their standing over previous squads. Under Miss Riou, their coach, the team won three of their seven games. Unfortunately, the big game with arch-rival Medway was not one of the victories. As one reviews past records, it can be seen that there has been a continued improvement in the win column. One can only hope that this will continue and that next year's team can finish the season with a .500 or better average. Good luck, girls!

"Forget it! It's a foul anyway."

THE MOHAWK STAFF

This year, we, the Mohawk Staff, vowed that our book would be the best ever. We refused the advice of previous staffs; we had to learn for ourselves the work entailed in publishing a yearbook. We soon experienced the problems of meeting deadlines for our write-ups and ads, the insignificant quarrels concerning such trivialities as the number of senior pictures to be apportioned to each page, the frustration of not having a snow storm arrive on a school day so that it could be used for our colored end-sheets, and the impossibility of finding enough time for meetings. In spite of these obstacles we have enjoyed every moment spent in the production of this book. Without the help of our advisers, Mrs. Gavin and Mr. Dugas, The Mohawk would never have reached publication; we extend to them our sincerest and most appreciative thanks.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

N. H. S. Membership Reaches All-Time High

Although this year's National Honor Society was limited to three members, they displayed in their activities the required qualities of character, scholarship, leadership, and service. Again this year the Society will donate the proceeds from the Girls' vs. Boys' Basketball Game to the Citizens' Scholarship Fund. The 1965 induction ceremonies welcomed sixteen new members; these included two sophomores under the National Provisional Member Program. With the help of Mrs. Welch, their adviser, the members will go forth tomorrow as leaders along the pathway to peace, striving to uphold the ideals they represent.

STUDENT COUNCIL

STUDENT COUNCIL SPONSORS SCHOLARSHIP

During this school year the Student Council has been active in implementing its new Constitution and the members have worked hard to achieve some of the goals this document seeks to accomplish. Efforts were made to begin such programs as the school activity calendar, which will help to coordinate school activities, and to exercise quality leadership for the Student Body. The members worked hard to raise the necessary funds for the scholarship program they sponsor annually. The Student Council has made a sincere attempt to begin the important task of building a Council in which both students and faculty can have confidence and for which they can have respect.

MOHAWK MESSENGER

LIVE WIRE UNDERGOES CHANGE

This year our school publication, the Live Wire, became known as the Mohawk Messenger. But, more importantly, the entire format of the magazine was changed, making it a literary work of art. Few issues were printed, but those which were contained editorials, interviews, student news, fads and fashions, and sports features, interspersed with bits of good humor and delightful illustrations. The staff, concerned with quality rather than quantity, enjoyed the experience of working together, and look forward in coming years to perfecting future issues of the publication.

VALENTINE COURT

VALENTINE BALL

The Tenth Annual P.T.A. Valentine Ball highlighted the events of the winter term. Couples danced to heavenly music while silver snowflakes dazzled from above. The Kings and Queens from the preceeding balls led the Coronation Procession—a first this year. Then the climax of the evening came when last year's King, Robert McDonough, placed the crown on Frederick Heustis' head, and last year's Queen, Susan MacFarland, crowned Patricia McLaughlin. Dr. Roy presented the Royal Couple with gifts, after which they ascended their throne, a "real" horse-drawn sleigh, which was set in a picturesque winter scene. This ball was one of the most delightful in many a year.

SOPHOMORE WINS AT SCIENCE FAIR

Once again a sophomore, Vincent Toffling, was awarded the Grand Prize at the Science Fair. Sandra Cartier, President of the Senior Class, did the same thing two years ago, during her sophomore year. This, by no means, indicates that the seniors did not share in the spotlight. On the contrary, several seniors won awards. Each class contributed projects which represented many hours of effort and libraries of knowledge. In fact, the quality of the projects was so good this year, that the judges must have had a difficult time choosing the winners.

Band Membership on the Rise

BAND • ORCHESTRA • CHORUS

Membership in the Band, Chorus, and Orchestra has increased during the last few years and these activities have played a prominent role in school life. The Band, under the direction of Mr. Frank Gubala, has performed at football games, assemblies, and several concerts. The Chorus and Orchestra, under the direction of Mrs. Catharine Culver, have brought more recognition to Millis, since many members were selected for the all-state and district concerts.

Thank you, fac-ul-ty of Mil-lis High, For friendly words and sound ad-vice; For each one of us you un-der-stood
And tried to help when e'er you could.

So long, students, now we must depart;
Wonderful mem'ries will remain in our hearts.
Although our high school days are done,
We'll think of you for years to come.

So now we leave this school of ours
With fond remembrance of happy hours.
We leave with tears and sighs of regret
And know these years we'll never forget!

Music by William Toffling

CLASS POEM

VALE

We're leaving Millis High School now;
We're on our way to glean the heights of victory's vow.
We leave our thanks to each of you,
Mother and Dad and faculty in gratitude.

In years to come we hope to prove That this was all worth-while, and hear you say the job's well done.
What dearer words can ever be returned to Alma Mater, Millis High!

Valarie Duncan
